Our customers around the globe have long benefited from the fully integrated advantages of Sime Darby Plantation's upstream and downstream operations. We process a wide variety of oil seeds, including palm, rapeseed, sunflower, soybean and coconut. Our refineries provide the delivery and refinement of premium quality oils and fats, effectively and efficiently.

Today, all of the downstream operations of Sime Darby Plantations are now known as Sime Darby Oils. This new entity, officially launched in March 2019, combines all the experience of an age-old trusted partner with a new focus and vision for our current and future clients.

More than ever, Sime Darby Oils is all about realising possibilities, together.
